

Debtwire, a division of the Financial Times Group, is seeking an aggressive reporter to help bolster our real time coverage of the high yield, unrated and event-driven segments of the municipal bond market.

Candidates for this New York City-based position should have at least one year of financial reporting experience and a proven track record of breaking news. Candidates with a municipal analyst background will also be given strong consideration. He/she will be expected to develop and cultivate sources, author original story ideas and attend industry conferences.

To apply, please send your resume and writing samples to paul.greaves@debtwire.com

Debtwire publishes real-time news and data for financial professionals in the debt markets across the world. Debtwire is a division of the Financial Times Group, publisher of the Financial Times newspaper and FT.com. The FT Group is a division of Pearson plc, the international media group.