

Timothy Little*Associate Director, State and Local Governments
U.S. Public Finance

Timothy is an Associate Director in S&P Global Ratings' State and Local Government Group in the U.S. Public Finance Department covering a variety of credits and security types. He currently is the primary analyst on a number of states in the southeast, mid-Atlantic, and Alaska.

In addition to rating bonds, Tim has published sector-wide reports on pensions, demographics, distressed local governments, and contributes to a number of national commentaries.

Prior to S&P, Tim was a researcher with the Pew Charitable Trusts in Washington, DC working on state and local government finance issues, particularly public sector retirement systems and was a legislative fellow in the Connecticut General Assembly's non-partisan Office of Fiscal Analysis.

He is a member of the National Federation of Municipal Analysts and its local affiliate the Municipal Analysts Group of New York. He is also a member of the American Society for Public Administration and its Association for Budgeting and Financial Management.

Timothy attended The George Washington University in Washington, DC and graduated with a BA in political science and international relations. He also received a Masters of Public Administration concentrating in public financial management from the University of Connecticut.